READINESS ASSESSMENT

A Tool for Online Learning Success

What is it?
A web-based, 124-item assessment that measures individual student’s readiness level for studying in an online or hybrid learning environment.

The results inform students of their learning strengths and potential growth opportunities in online learning success.

Why take it?
Students tend to underestimate their readiness level when registering for distance learning courses, which often leads to multiple challenges that hinder their learning success.

This assessment can help students to better determine their readiness level. Customized improvement recommendations are provided based on the result.
